

DETAIL

Newsletter

Daily Blog

The scent of architecture: A house with a living wall

With its living façade this lovely house site proudly if mysteriously somewhere in the city Lisbon, Portugal.

More...

Cubicle Apartments: Hong Kong

A Hong Kong Chinese human rights organisation, the “Society for Community Organisation” (SoCO), has commissioned a series of photographs of overcrowded living spaces in the city.

More...

Power of the pavilion, Spain by Jesús Torres of García architects

Jesús Torres of García architects, who is Spanish, but who is currently living in Paris, was inspired by Oscar Niemeyer's approach to building in harmony with nature.

More...

DETAIL English Edition 2013/2

Transparent and Translucent

Transparent materials varying in their degree of translucence have always made buildings attractive in a special way. No matter whether used inside buildings or in façades: such materials gently filter penetrating views, blur spatial boundaries, create light-flooded interiors and conjure up emotionalising light atmospheres.

To the new issue

Advertisement

ECOWEEK New Nordic Living with KEA School of Design & Technology

Join 300+ Danish and international students and young professionals for a week of raising environmental awareness and designing sustainable solutions to real problems. Copenhagen, May 13-19. Keynote: Gehl Architects.

More...

DETAIL on Facebook

DETAIL on Pinterest

DETAIL – Review of Architecture + Construction Details
Institut fuer internationale Architektur-Dokumentation GmbH & Co. KG
Hackerbruecke 6 | 80335 Muenchen, Germany
T: +49 89 38 16 20-0 | F: +49 89 33 87 61 | E: mail@detail.de

Ust-IdNr: DE 813334479
Court of Registry: Amtsgericht Muenchen, HRA 78960
Responsible according to § 55 Abs. 2 RStV:
André Weijde

This newsletter was sent to maier@detail.de
Unsubscribe | DETAIL.com | Contact