

ECOWEEK 2011: TTDZ Workshop

Design a sustainable urban intervention and/or landscape design project on the site in front of the Central Library of the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, inside the university campus.

This site was once cemeteries (Muslim and Jewish) and later turned into the open space of the university. Today, as part of the metro line, the site is being dug up. In the future, the site will be an open space again serving the university campus. The goal is that the workshops will develop ideas and proposals of architectural and urban character for the site.
